生效日期：民國 81 年 03 月 25 日

The Australian Academy of Science, the Australian Academy of Technological Sciences and Engineering, Australia, and the National Foundation for Science and Technology, National Science Council, Republic of China, recognize the mutual benefit of scientific and technological Interchange and the convenience of set procedures for Its administration.

Both sides will facilitate cooperation between specialists in the scientific and technological disciplines within their mutual competence, subject to the laws and regulations in force in the two countries and subject to the financial limitations of each side. The form of scientific contacts may include:

(a) Study Visits

Both sides will assist in promoting exchanges of research scientists and technologists of at least postdoctoral or equivalent level for periods of between one and four weeks for exploratory visits, subject to a balance being maintained on each side. These visits will be known as study visits. For study visits, the sending side will pay international air fares and the host side will pay local costs. To be included in the study visits are exchange visits between the administrative staff of the two sides.

(b) Fellowship Visits

Both sides will assist in promoting visits of research scientists and technologists of at least postdoctoral or equivalent level for periods of up to twelve months, to carry out research projects or learn new techniques predominantly in one laboratory or site but with provision for short subsidiary visits to other places. These visits will be known as fellowship visits. The sending side will pay for all the expenses of these visits, both international air fares and local costs, with the host side helping with the placing of visitors and the administration of the visit, as may be necessary. The number of fellowship visits from each country will be the same.

(c) Joint Seminars

Both sides will facilitate the holding of seminars in areas where the exchange of information promises to improve the level of cooperation between scientists and technologists of the two sides. The sending side will pay international air fares, and the host side will pay local costs.

Matters relating to intellectual property and the level of exchange activity will be agreed upon when funding becomes available
